City Council Discusses Employment Projects

City Council approved a grant application for Model Cities Halfway House Project and a contract for the Minority Availablity for Tacoma Employment Project (MATE).

While discussing the MATE Project several councilmen talked about unemployment problems in Tacoma.

Dr. Arnold Herrman, after expressing his support of the MATE Project, said that he was concerned about duplication of effort by the numerous employment projects in Tacoma.

Harold Moss replied that the unemployment problem in Tacoma was a major concern requiring more attention. He said that many different groups of people have unique employment problems which can only be met by counselors who understand these problems.

Agreeing with Council Moss, Dick Sonntag added that Tacoma still has s huge unemployment problem which needs more attention. He said, "If we have six Model Cities projects for unemployment, we need ten."

An application for $60,000 in State funds for the Model Cities Halfway House Project was also approved. The City must supply 10 percent matching funds to get the grant. Approval of the application depends on State acceptance of a plan to use Model Cities money for matching funds.

Approval of a contract for the Adult Outreach Project was postponed for two weeks at the request of Model Cities Director Keith Palmquist.

The Council authorized the Tacoma Veterans Action Center, a Model Cities Project, to subcontract with the Tacoma Urban League. Project Director Ted Jefferson told the Council that Pierce County has 9,600 Vietnam-era veterans, and that the project counsels about 85 veterans a month helping them find jobs.

Soldiers Are Catalysts In Toy Collection

FORT LEWIS, WA.--Santa's South Vietnamese section is getting some help from military police here.

Soldiers in the 392nd Military Police Battalion are sparking a drive to collect toys and clothing for youngsters in orphanages in South Vietnam and the children of South Vietnamese military police.

The project is the idea of Lieutenant Colonel L.H. Fargason, who served as an advisor to South Vietnam's MPs last year.

His coordinator for the effort, 296th Military Police Company Commander, Captain Jerome Renner, said that donated items will be distributed in time for the TET New Year's holiday in January. The battalion chaplain, Major Jack Rowan, is arranging for transporation.

December 15 is the deadline for gifts. So far, most of the donations have come from families of men in the 392nd and include a variety of stuffed animals and a good deal of clothing.

Anyone wishing to contribute may call the Battalion headquarters (96-82716), and they will arrange for pickup.

The Drive For Youth Recreation Program Successful

Fort Lewis, WA--A six-week campaign to raise money for Fort Lewis' youth recreation program has produced $6,150 so far.

The drive will end December 16 with one of the contributors receiving a new car. Proceeds of the effort, along with a share of United Way contributions here, are chief sources of support for the youth program.

Unit volunteers, Scouts and members of youngsters' sports teams have helped sell tickets in the campaign, which was spearheaded by the 9th Infantry Division's 1st Brigade. Lieutenant Colonel F. W. Bowling is chairman.

Navy Under Investigation

In the wake of the riots aboard several Navy ships, a Congressional committee has begun an investigation into the disorders under the assumption that a breakdown in discipline helped spark racial clashes that have occured on two aircraft carriers causing many casualties among black and white midshipmen.

In his testimony before the House Armed Services Committee which is investigating the disturbances, four-star Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt told the committee that the "Navy will maintain order and discipline."

Without citing specific incidents, Representative Floyd V. Hicks, chairman of the committee, said in his opening statement, "We cannot overlook the possibility that there may exist at this time an environment of - for lack of a better word - 'permissiveness,' wherein all that is needed is a catalyst. Perhaps perceptions of racial relations in these cases provided that spark."

Hicks will ferret out the facts and report them to the full committee with his recommendations for corrective action. Most Naval officers resent the inquiry. They fear that the true story behind the riots may provide grounds for more drastic changes in the Navy.

TACOMA POLICE CHIEF NEEDS YOUR ASSISTANCE

Today, Chief of Police Lyle E. Smith appealed to the greater metropolitan area of Tacoma for assistance in locating a vehicle involved in a fatal hit and run accident. On Friday, December 1, 1972, at 9:05 p.m., Thomas S. Nappier was struck at 23rd and Pacific. Mr. Nappier succumbed to injuries a short time later.

The vehicle was described by several witnesses as a late model Corvette which appeared light blue or silver blue under the mercury vapor lights. This vehicle left the scene at a high rate of speed being pursued by witnesses. The Corvette was chased to 38th and South M where it finally eluded the pursuing party.

Chief Smith is asking assistance from the community in locating this vehicle. Anyone who may have knowledge of a Corvette having front end damage and fitting this description, or of anyone driving a vehicle of this description, is asked to contact Investigators Buchholz or Yerbury at 593-4041. All information will be held in strict confidence.

PREACHING THAT HELPS

Billy Graham tells about a plane trip he took from New York to Charlotte, North Carolina.

"A great big fat man got on board. And I think he was the fattest man I had ever seen on a plane. They had to take out the middle partition to give him two seats. And he was drunk." Graham said the man flirted with a stewardess and used "all kinds of obscene language."

On the same flight was the mayor of Charlotte, who turned to the drunk and asked, "Do you know who is sitting behind you?"

Obviously the man did not, and when informed of Graham's presence, stumbled and swore his way back to Graham's seat. "Are you Billy Graham?" he asked.

Graham assured the man that he was, whereupon the man offered his hand and exclaimed, "Well, put it there. YOUR SERMONS SURE HAVE HELPED ME."

It's Never Too Late

Bowling pins toppled and scattered leaving one pin standing on each side of the alley. Slowly the silver-haired lady picked up a new ball and moved to the next lane to face a new set of ten pins.

"Wait a minute. You're in my lane," another woman shouted.

"But I've only got two pins left over there," she replied.

All the seniors laughed, joining in the fun at the Model Cities Senior Citizens Center bowling party December 4 at Lincoln Bowl.

Another senior woman put her hands on her hips after rolling a gutter ball. "Well, take the pains out of my back," she proclaimed laughingly as she plopped down on a bench.

"I don't think any of us every played before," a slender senior woman said.

At the foul line, stood a stout woman staring at the ten pins. She dropped the ball on the alley and it rolled into the left gutter. "I do better all the time. It's going in the other gutter now."

Meanwhile, another woman checked her score after three frames and shouted, "I got ten. I got ten!" Her face reflected pride of accomplishment.

Soon the Model Cities mini-bus picked up the group as they chattered about their new experience a little late in life.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL OPENS

Thursday, November 9, may have been a great leap forward for the students and educators of Tacoma. On that day the school board passed five recommendations that, if successful, could have a positive effect on every student in the Tacoma public school system. Most of the recommendations concerned open enrollment and the new Henry Foss senior high.

Beginning next year the high schools will run on an open enrollment system, with absolute priority given to students living in and wishing to go to schools within their attendance areas. If a school can handle more students, priority will be given to next year's seniors (this year's juniors). Next year's juniors, now sophomores, will be given second priority. If a school can handle some, but not all, of the students in one class applying, a lottery will be held to select the students. Any coach or teacher who tries to, or conspires to, influence a student to attend a certain school will lose his/her job.

Maximum attendance for the five high schools is: Henry Foss 1,712, Lincoln 1,929, Mt. Tahoma 1,526, Stadium 1,735, and Wilson 1,984. The policy of the state board of education is to endeavor to have not more than 40 per cent students of a racial minority in any one school. The Tacoma School Board recommends no more than 25 per cent, and expects that no high school will have more than 15 per cent minority students.

The open enrollment will not alter present bus lines and schedules. Students living two or more miles from the school they attend will be eligible for transportation passes. Otherwise, they must provide their own transportation. Students who wish to attend high schools outside their attendance areas must submit applications between January 14 and March 1, 1973. Those having questions regarding open enrollment and primary attendance areas should contact the school board or a faculty member at their present schools. If the open enrollment program is a success, it may be tried at the junior high and elementary levels, with the same guidelines.

It is expected that the curriculum at Henry Foss will be above par compared to other Tacoma high schools. Though the content will be the same, the manner in which it is taught will be different. More emphasis will be placed on individual learning and individual advancement. In most classes grades A, B, and C will be given, with no credit in place of grades D and E. Some classes, such as physical education, will be graded pass/fail. Team teaching will be tried in two ways: two teachers for two classes, and two teachers for one class. The student to teacher ratio will be about the same as in other high schools in the district. An advisor for each student will replace counselors. The advisors will help students with scheduling classes, entering vocational school, or planning a schedule for college admission. Each advisor (one for every twenty students) will be a faculty member.

CEA-LEGAL Aid To Provide Legal Intake Services

by Joe D. Starling

Pierce County Legal Service will undertake a joint venture with Central Employment Agency in order to make the black community more aware of the availability of such services.

Beginning on 11/4/72 Legal Services of Pierce County will have an attorney taking intake on Mondays from 1:30-3:30 p.m. at CEA at 13th and Kay Street.

If legal service is needed on days other than Monday, it can be obtained at the office of Pierce County Legal Services located at 1501 South M Street. The hours that Legal Assistance is given are:

Monday - 1:30 - 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays - 10:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Wednesday - 9:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Thursdays - 9:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Fridays - 9:30 - 12:00 noon.

Let it be know that there are qualifications that must be met in order to qualify for these services. There are financial guideline established, in order to assure that only the poorest people receive such aid. Also, Legal Services will not handle certain types of cases or traffic cases.

The best way to determine if one is eligible for Legal Aid is to ask the attorney in person rather than phoning into the Legal Aid office. There are forms that must be filled in person in order to determine one's eligibility.

Shoplifting: Take It Seriously

by Ellen G. Murphy

The shoplifting dilemma has no easy way out. Since a high percentage of shoplifters today are teenagers, it is vital that both parents and children understand that shoplifting is stealing.

Penalties are severe! A teenager caught shoplifting may not be able to get jobs when he grows up. Jobs that require a state license--barber, beauty operator, taxi driver, bartender, and many others--may not be open to anyone with a criminal record. He may not be able to join the military service of his choice. Certainly, the police record could follow him--or her--all during life.

Do your child a favor. Convince him that the supposed thrill of shoplifting--the pleasure of a club membership--is not worth a lifelong criminal record.

If you're too late, it your child has been caught shoplifting, help him see that what he did was very wrong. However, let him know that you will stand by him. When a child has trouble with the law, it's important for him to know that he still has love from his family.

Often the first step in facing the situation is admitting to yourself that your child has done wrong. Standing by your child does not mean screaming at store personnel, "You're picking on him." It does not mean your trying to lie his way out; it mean accepting the fact the problem exists, and going on from there.

Sometimes if you can find out why a child shoplifts, you can help him avoid it. Is he shoplifting just for the "thrill"? Was he told to steal to belong to a special club? Does he believe the store will never miss the sale anyway? Does he think he has a god-given right to anything he wants, whether or not he can pay for it? Or, des he take things because he has no money of his own?

Face the problem of shoplifting before it strikes your family. It could. It already has--in far too many homes today.

Mugged!

Willie (JC) Abraham who is being held in $275,000 bail on a Federal dope rap is shown collared by Ptl. James Macieko in front of the Gold Lounge on Seventh Ave. on one of his previous encounters with police. He surrendered to police Saturday.

MINORITIES CONCERNED TASK FORCE ASK MALL BOYCOTT

Four months of effort to find employment for members of racial minorities in shops at the Tacoma Mall has resulted in one lone job. Last August the employment committee of the Minority Concerns Task Force (MCTF) was asked to investigate minority hiring practices at the Mall. A random personnel survey revealed an average of 10 per cent minority persons employed in stores there. However, the large stores had substantially over 10 per cent, while the medium and small shops employed practically no minorities.

Representatives of the Minority Concerns Task Force met with Lloyd Beaulaurier, the Mall manager, in September to discuss: (1) the problem of minority hiring, (2) lack of a minority coordinator for hiring, (3) lack of an affirmative action program. All three points remained unresolved, according to Bart Alford, chairman of the education committee of the MCTF. Mr. Beaulaurier stated he could not do anything, and he refused to name his superiors who could be of assistance. He did, however, promise to contact the individual shop owners in regard to minority hiring, and he requested and was given a list of eligible job seekers. None of these individuals were placed.

Again in November representatives of the MCTF met with Mr. Beaulaurier on the same problems. Again, nothing was resolved, but he assured the MCTF that shop owners were eager to hire minorities. Following this meeting the Urban League and Minority Employment Service made a three-day concerted effort contacting the individual shops to secure jobs. Out of this, two job openings turned up and one person was hired.

The Minority Concerns Task Force is now considering a recommendation to picket the Mall and file a class action suit charging discrimination in employment. Mr. Alford stated: "Business elements such as the Tacoma Mall represent a very visible and significant entity in this area. That being the case, these elements should make a concerted effort to deal with some of these problems in the community. They should not shirk them, but should help resolve them."

The Minority Concerns Task Force is asking people who believe in equal employment opportunities to shop at places other than the Mall.

Tacoma Salvation Army Gives Presents

The Tacoma Salvation Army is offering its registry service again this year to clear names of recipients of gifts for Christmas. The Army keeps accurate records of the type of gifts received by needy persons and families in Pierce County.

All organizations, agencies, groups or individual givers in the county are urged to call Broadway 2-8090 and clear the name before giving to a person or family in need. Such a call will avoid duplications of gifts and food.

"Many times individuals or organizations learn of someone in need and in their willingness to help do not realize that that particular person or family has been or will be supplied by some other person or group while another family received nothing," said Mrs. Bess Estes of the Salvation Army Staff.

The purpose of the "clearing house" program is to make sure that donations are dispersed evenly so that those in need all receive something. Make sure that your gift reaches a deserving needy person. Call BR 2-8090.

As a homebuyer, you will realize several advantages: the interest you pay is wholly income tax deductible; you will soon build an equity in the value of your home . . . making your net worth grow; your home is your castle . . . yours to live in, in your own individual style.

Some of these homes are still available under HUD's Section 235, to qualified low and middle income buyers. Section 235 provides for minimum down and low monthly payments, with low interest rates. Consult your Real Estate Broker about "235" provisions. He can tell you how they apply to you, and if "235" is your best way to buy.

HUD doesn't sell houses, so please don't call HUD for details. All sales are made through professional Real Estate brokers. Almost all licensed Real Estate brokers have complete lists of homes available. They will be glad to help you find the home suitable for you, and to answer all your questions. Call one today. Luxury Returns for the Big Evening

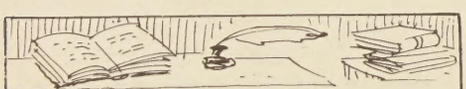
Smashingly elegant for those big holiday evenings in town, this floor length coat of tortoise-dyed SWAKARA® broadtail lamb from South West Africa radiates glamor. Schiaparelli Furs designed it, and added a final touch of sybaritic luxury—the sable collar.



Westminster Abbey, with its 1000-year history, has a Poet's Corner, in whieh England honors its greatest writers.

Toys for Tots In 25th Year

The Toys for Tots program, which collects new and used toys for needy children nationally during the holiday season, was begun 25 years ago by the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve. This year most Kentucky Fried Chicken stores across the country will again participate with Reserve units on a voluntary basis in the program.

In 1971, Toys for Tots, coordinated by the Reserve with local community health and welfare groups, collected nearly 5,000,000 toys, which were distributed to over 1,800,000 needy children.

The Marines and cooperating local groups pick up the toys from participating KFC store collection centers for distribution to the children before Christmas.
